LAND ROVER CLUB

October 2010

Comments

Well what a top weekend, I was last at avalanche with Vic and Roy 12 months ago to take a look and decide if we could use the facility for the club? Obviously we made the right decision.

I started to get ready for Avalanche mid morning on Friday, the 110 had to be cleaned out, washed and leathered ready for the short hop to Avalanche, the caravan just needed loading as it had been washed the previous week. At 2.00pm due to the campsite y30 being level, (that makes a change), so the beers were out in no time.

The field filled up pretty quickly, we were off, straight down the M1 to junction 20, turn left towards Market Harborough, then a minor detour to the right and before we knew it we were there! Setting the van up was very quick and by 6pm there was already quite a lot of vans set up so everybody started to relax and enjoy themselves while it was still day light.

Saturday morning 09.30 and we were all in the middle of the field having a members meeting, all the details that we knew of were relayed to the members and all was well in the camp! By 10.30 the first few had ventured onto this new land slightly wary of the DEEP water! As reported in the meeting. The day flew by with the off road course looking like an ants nest with Landy's going everywhere, including many getting hopelessly stuck in the mire!

I dare say you will all know the ones that were stuck deep in the mire? And the one in particular that had to be recovered out of the DEEP water while it was covering his gear-stick ? Not mentioning any names Keith L?

As 6pm drew close the majority of people were still out driving mostly without any mechanical failures incurred? That also made a change! As the course was closed, the Landy's were lined up next to the runway with mud dripping everywhere, what a great sight.

With the use of 2 showers on site, the off roaders tuck the opportunity to take a well earned hot shower, then as the night drew in, 2 groups formed, 1 in the middle of the campsite, (so that the kids in the caravans were looked after), the other in the marquee, which was supplied free by the landowner. With the banter flowing well in both camps, it was with regret that I decided to wander across the campsite in the pitch black, forgetting there was a large tractor steel wheel rim sitting in the middle of the field! Guess what, next thing I know I am going head first into the middle of the rim, but not before burying my left shin into the rim edge!

Oh dear Oh damn never mind it only hurt a bit! As the night wore on my leg developed 2 knees, then 1 knee and one tennis ball. Amanda was insisting I needed to go to hospital for An x-ray . Nah be ok in the morning, so with frozen chips acting as an ice pack for a while, it was off to sleep I go. ( the copious quantity of red wine helped tremendously).

Next morning as I limped around the site, I found out I was not the only one to have taken an impromptu dive into the wheel rim, and far be it for me to mention any names ROY.

Sunday was quite sedate to start up but by 11am it was apparent that no one was off roading, so we decided to watch the gliders get launched right along side our camp site, with that and the fantastic sunshine, we eventually got packed up and on our way by about 2.30

I would like to say that event felt very good from start to finish, including the feeling of camaraderie from everyone on site, so I think we will be looking to rebook Avalanche for next year.

Regards,

One ten

Thanks to the owner of Avalanche for a fantastic course to come to.

- $p(A) = 0.25$
- $p(B|A) = 0.80$
- $p(B|\neg A) = 0.60$
- $p(B|A) = 0.75$
- $p(B|\neg A) = 0.50$

$$O(A | B) = \frac{p(A | B)}{p(\neg A | B)} = \frac{p(B | A)p(A)}{p(B | \neg A)p(\neg A)} = \frac{(0.8)(0.25)}{(0.6)(0.75)} = 0.4444$$
